Slacker Inks Deals with Top Indie Labels

Slacker Now Offers Listeners Access to Millions of Songs from Thousands of Leading Independent Labels

SAN DIEGO, Calif. – September 20, 2007 – Slacker, Inc. today announced deals with leading independent music labels and distributors, including IODA, The Orchard, Beggars Group and Matador Records, IRIS, Ubiquity Records and Sanctuary Group PLC. The agreements give Slacker the content rights to enable Personal Radio that can be played everywhere.

Slacker previously announced similar agreements with the major labels EMI Music, SONY BMG MUSIC ENTERTAINMENT, Universal Music Group and Warner Music Group. The agreements with the major and Indie labels enable Slacker customers to create and play highly personalized, continuously refreshed radio stations via PC or Mac (www.slacker.com) and later this year on Slacker Portable Players.

“Slacker is focused on building the world’s largest and most eclectic music radio catalog,” said Dennis Mudd, CEO of Slacker. “With these licenses, we enable music lovers to create deeper and more diverse radio stations than ever before, and play them wherever they go.”

Slacker Personal Radio enables listeners to create, edit and share their own stations or personalize over 100 professionally programmed stations. Slacker customers also have easy access to artist profiles, album reviews and cover art within the Slacker Web Player, Desktop Radio and on the Slacker Portable.

“IODA is very excited about this deal with Slacker as it gives our labels and artists an innovative avenue in which to grow their audience and reach their fans,” said Kevin Arnold, Founder/CEO of IODA. “Our music catalog includes close to 1 million tracks from thousands of leading Indie labels worldwide. The ability for fans to access these tracks has just become a whole lot easier with Slacker.”

“We’re pleased to be part of the innovative Slacker Personal Radio service,” said Simon Wheeler, Director of Digital at Beggars Group. “Our groundbreaking artists and creative labels are naturally at home in an environment where music lovers can discover, share and enjoy music. Music discovery and word of mouth are two key factors in our success and the viral capabilities of the Slacker service should help us spread the word further and louder!”

“IRIS is happy to collaborate with Slacker to provide its users with the best independent music,” said Bryn Boughton, Chief Marketing Officer for IRIS. “At IRIS we are always seeking new ways to help our labels reach new audiences and we believe Slacker will provide an excellent channel.”

The Slacker Personal Radio online experience is available for free today in beta at www.slacker.com and is coming soon on Slacker Portable Players. Slacker Basic Radio is advertising supported and will remain free for customers to use on the web, Slacker Desktop Radio and Slacker Portables. Slacker Premium Radio, which will offer additional features, is also coming soon.
